REFERENCES

Bernard, G. D., A numerical kinematic catchment model, MEng thesis, Department of Civl, Suvy. and Env.Eng, University of Newcastle, Australia, 1982.

References

Corradini, C., Meltone, F., Ubertini, L. and Singh, V. P., A geomorphologic approach to synthesis of direct runoff from the upper Tiber river basin, Italy. in Gupta, V. K., I. Rodriguez-Iturbe and E. F. Wood (Eds), Scale problems in hydrology, Reidel, Dordrecht, p. 57-80, 1986.

References

References

Horton, R., The role of infiltration in the hydrological cycle, Eos Trans. AGU, 14, p. 446-460, 1933.

River Hydraulics; Pitman, 1980.

References

Shreve, R., Stream lengths and basin areas in topologically random channel networks, J. Geol., 77, 397-414, 1969.
Smart, J., Channel networks, Advances in Hydroscience, 8, 305-346, 1972.
Tarboton, D., The analysis of river basins and channel networks using digital terrain data. Sc.D.Thesis, Department of Civil Engineering, MIT, Cambridge, MA, (Also available as Tarboton, D.G., R.L.Bras and I Rodriguez-Iturbe, (Same Title,
Technical Report No326, Ralph M. Parsons Laboratory for Water Resources and Hydrodynamics, Department of Civil Engineering, MIT.

Terzidis G. and Strelkoff, T., Computation of open-channel surges and shocks, ASCE Hy 12, V. 96, 1970.

Tokunaga, E., Consideration on the composition of drainage networks and their evolution, Geographical Reports of Tokyo Metropolitan University, No. 13, 1978.

